STATEWIDE
TRANSPORTATION
IMPROVEMENT
PROGRAM

What is the Statewide Transportation Improvement Program (STIP)?

The STIP identifies the statewide transportation projects which will utilize federal funding. Each project in the STIP includes the amount of funding and scheduling information. This four-year program includes state, county, city, Federal Lands, and Tribal projects.

Project types include roadway, bridge and other modes of transportation such as railroad, freight, public transit, bicycle, and pedestrian. Projects must be approved on the STIP in order to receive federal funds.

How and when is the STIP Prepared?

The STIP is updated every four years. Projects can be included in the program only if their funding is reasonably expected to be available and can be balanced against available funds. It is an involved process and is coordinated with various entities at the local, state, and federal levels. The process can take up to nine months.

Amendments to the STIP are performed bimonthly and administration modifications are made on an as needed basis. This program is developed in accordance with the Infrastructure Investment Jobs Act (IIJA) and applicable federal regulations.

Get Involved!

Public involvement is crucial to the development of a STIP that will best meet the ongoing transportation needs of the state. It provides a road map for assuring that everyone's voice is not only heard, but that it makes a difference in moving Alabama forward.
